Queen Arlene Falcon

"A long, strange trip," is how Queen Arlene Falcon describes her journey from Flushing, Queens, New York to Moscow, Idaho and the ensuing 15 years as a community leader and owner of Tye Dye Everything. Arlene realized her passion for "getting things done" while working toward her degree in Urban Studies and Community Planning at the University of Michigan. She eventually settled at Pokey Creek, near St. Maries, and raised five kids and a business. Activities for her children at the Moscow Mardi Gras and Renaissance Fair first drew her to Moscow, and then in 1998 she opened a small retail shop near UI campus, selling her tie-dyed wares on weekends. In 1999 she moved to Moscow and Tye Dye Everything into the Purple Mall.

Arlene volunteered as vendor liaison for the Moscow Renaissance Fair in 2000 and has been on the planning committee in that capacity ever since. She also DJs one of the longest running radio shows on KRFP Radio Free Moscow, spinning Grateful Dead every Wednesday night from 9:30-11. When the Moscow Hemp Fest needed some TLC in 2006, Arlene volunteered to organize the annual festival and continues to do so. In 2007, she and Queen Louise Todd helped to start Buy Local Moscow to better network with and increase the impact of locally-owned businesses. She believes cooperation, not competition, will build up our community.

Queen Louise Todd

Queen Louise Todd is originally from Manchester, England and grew up in Boise. She came to Moscow in 1997 to attend UI and completed her degree in American Studies with an emphasis in Native American Studies in 1999, the same year she began working at Mikey's Gyros. The community-minded philosophy of the mom-and-pop business was to her liking; she became manager and has been part-owner of the restaurant for the last nine years. Louise was also a KUOI disc jockey for many years and, between the friends she made there and through Mikey's loyal customer base, has developed the network of people that makes Moscow very much her home.

Louise lives the civic-minded concept in personal ways. First, pursuing her dream to find and provide books in the Nimiipuu language to local children, she co-founded a First Book chapter here on the Palouse. First Book is a national organization that gives books to kids in need, and so far the local group has distributed books at the Palouse Prairie, Russell and Potlatch schools. She has also been president of Buy Local Moscow since helping to start it in 2007. She continues to weave a strong fiber of friends who own and operate local businesses, especially downtown, with the philosophy, "Cooperation rather than competition is the key to success in Moscow."

POSTER CONTEST WINNER

Jan Vogtman grew up in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and moved to Idaho in 1985. She retired from the University of Idaho in 2006 after a long career in corporate business. This left her time to pursue her passion in the arts. Jan has always loved to draw and became interested in watercolor while taking classes at the University of Idaho in 1999. Since then she has attended workshops by well-known artists and exhibited in numerous local, state and national shows. Jan is a member of the Palouse Watercolor Socius, Idaho Watercolor Society, and the Northwest Watercolor Society. www.janvogtmanart.com

Jonathan Halquist, who assisted with the lettering design, is an artist from Minneapolis, where he performs jazz violin and practices the graphic arts.

Moscow Renaissance Fair is GREEN!

Our serviceware, cups, utensils, plates, straws & napkins are biodegradable and compostable. HELP US by putting all uneaten food, beverages and serviceware in the compost bins. Other items are recycled as appropriate. We thank each other now for caring about the earth - future generations will love and admire us for taking care of the gift we leave them - with a virtually waste free Moscow Renaissance Fair!

Are you grateful that Moscow has such a grand community tradition? Did you know that the Moscow Renaissance Fair is supported entirely by the booth fees of food and craft vendors and donations from folks like you? Please consider making a donation to help us provide a quality Fair. Send your check to:
